

National Library of Ireland Summary Map Catalogue

Catalogue Contents

The following summary cataloguing is a listing of Manuscript, Ordnance Survey and older Printed Maps in the collections of the National Library of Ireland. An index is included on the last page of this document.

Map Conservation Projects

There are currently two projects to improve the condition and storage of the National Library's maps. Details on each project are given on the Maps section of the Library website. Readers should check whether the map they wish to see is accessible in the Reading Room, or currently undergoing conservation.

Access to Manuscript Maps and older Printed Maps

Map collections in the Department of Manuscripts undergoing conservation treatment may sometimes be recalled from the Conservation Laboratory by prior appointment with the Conservator Officer. Frequently consulted map collections have been copied onto alternative formats. For instance, surrogate paper copies have been made of collections such as the Phillips collection, and are consulted in the Manuscripts Reading Room. Collections such as the Down Survey parish maps have been microfilmed, and the microfilms are consulted in the Main Library Reading Room. All other manuscript and early printed maps are consulted in the Manuscripts Reading Room. For further information on maps in the Department of Manuscripts, and on admission procedures, please see the Manuscript section of the website. For specialist assistance on map collections in the Department of Manuscripts, please contact: Elizabeth M. Kirwan, Assistant Keeper.

Access to conserved Ordnance Survey Maps

Ordnance Survey maps which have not been conserved can still be consulted in the Main Reading Room. Ordnance Survey maps which have been conserved or are currently undergoing conservation treatment are listed on the Library website under the Maps section of the Collections web page. To consult these maps it is necessary to make an appointment by contacting: Honora Faul, Assistant Keeper phone: + 353 1 603 0225
