Introduction

Biography

Neil Jordan was born in County Sligo in 1950. He was educated at St. Pauls College, Raheny and went on to study Irish history and English literature at University College Dublin. In 1974, after graduating from UCD, he co-founded the Irish Writers Co-operative, along with Peter Sheridan, Fred Johnston, Ronan Sheehan and Desmond Hogan. In 1976 he published a collection of his short stories Night in Tunisia through the co-operative. This collection went on to win the Guardian Fiction prize in 1978. Jordan has gone on to publish three more novels since then.

In 1982 Jordan wrote and directed his first feature film, Angel, which won the London Evening Standards Most Promising Newcomer Award. He went on to release four more films during the 1980s, to a variety of critical acclaim, winning awards for The Company of Wolves (1984) and Mona Lisa (1986). In 1992 Jordan wrote and directed The Crying Game, a film which was widely celebrated and won him an Oscar for Best Original Screenplay, as well as numerous other awards.

Following the success of The Crying Game, Jordan went on to release several film adaptations of novels, including Interview with the Vampire (1994), The Butcher Boy (1997), and The End of the Affair (1999). Jordan also wrote and directed the films Michael Collins (1996), The Good Thief (2002), and Breakfast on Pluto (2005). To date Jordan has won over 30 awards in his various capacities as writer, director and producer. In 2003 he was given the IFTA Lifetime Achievement Award, and was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Literature by UCD in 2004.

The Collection

The collection was donated to the National Library of Ireland by Neil Jordan in 1993. It mainly comprises draft scripts and screenplays in typescript, together with handwritten production notes. There are also some miscellaneous film and play treatments. Contained in seven boxes and in good condition, it covers most of Neil Jordan’s films released between 1980 – 1992.

Arrangement

The Collection has been arranged into seven sections. The first six sections are a chronologically ordered list of the films. The final section contains miscellaneous treatments and outlines. Apart from two sections, they have all been sub-divided into ‘Scripts and Screenplays’ and ‘Production Notes’. The ‘High Spirits’ section has an additional sub-division containing background information regarding the film.

Unless otherwise stated, all scripts, treatments and notes are by Neil Jordan, and refer to the film under whose category they fall.
I. Angel (1982)

The film Angel also went under the working title of Brute Music in the following documents. These texts have been marked (BM).
